To London

First schools and nurseries attached to schools are included in the primary category; middle schools have been included in the secondary category

Hertfordshire is a large and diverse county, and a great place to start your teaching career, with over 500 schools and settings, supported by Herts for Learning.

The county offers a wide range of school choices in urban and rural settings:

- Nursery schools, 2-tier system, 3-tier system with middle schools
- Faith schools
- Single sex schools, mixed schools and all-through schools
- Special schools
- Nursery schools
- Academies and maintained schools

..... there really is something for everyone.

- One of the highest performing education authorities in England
- Schools consistently achieve standards well above national averages
- From NQT through to school leaders, Hertfordshire is a hub for teachers and an ideal county in which to build your career
- Hertfordshire prides itself on attracting exceptional teachers to inspire our students, supporting both to the highest level

The screenshot shows the Teach in Herts website interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links for Home, Find a job, Routes into teaching, Your career, Why Hertfordshire, and For schools. Below this is a large banner image of three students in a chemistry lab. A green overlay on the banner contains the text "Make Hertfordshire your first choice for a full and rewarding career" and a search bar with the placeholder "Find a job" and "Enter job title or keywords". Below the banner, there are statistics for job categories: 74 Teaching jobs, 11 Leadership jobs, and 134 Professional and support jobs. A "Please apply directly to schools - we do not charge agency fees" message is also present. The main content area features a "CLOSING SOON" tab and a "NEW JOBS" tab. Under the "CLOSING SOON" tab, there are three job listings: "Cover Supervisor" at The Nobel School, "KS2 Class Teacher" at St Peter's School, and "KS1 Class Teacher" at Manland Primary School. Each listing includes the location and the closing date (16/10/2020).

Tips for a successful application

- Find out as much as you can about the school: if possible arrange a visit. Use the website, social media, OFSTED report, be creative!
- Match your application to the role and the school
- It works both ways - if you aren't sure about the school then perhaps it's not right for you

The application Pack will include

- School details
- Job specification (identifying key areas of the role)
- Person specification including a list of essential and desirable criteria.

Your application should follow the person specification:

- Demonstrate that you have done your research
- Show how you meet each point with examples
- Remember schools don't just employ teachers, they employ people. Will you be the right fit for their team?
- Keep it to a maximum of 2 sides of A4
- Get someone to read it through for spelling and grammar errors
- Make sure you get it in by the deadline!

Your interview

- First impressions are important
- Be authentic; be succinct
- Do your homework – vision/values of the school
- Why do you really want to work at this school?
- Answer questions with solid examples – even if small! Could be something you've seen/conversation you've had
- Compile questions and tick them off as you go – your questions are interesting
- Take ownership of your professional development – ask what your induction will look like at this school

Some advice from last year's NQTs

There are moments when you will doubt yourself!

Teaching is hard, but it's absolutely worth it.

Ask for help, everyone you work with has been in your shoes.

Be confident from day one. You may feel like a fraud but the children and parents don't know this, so don't show it!

Make the most of every opportunity. Observe as many teachers as possible and attend training courses.

Be kind to yourself, it is a constant learning curve.

Don't try and learn everything at once. You will learn it all, but it does not need to be in the first week.

Be organised!

Always ask for help.... from everyone! Mentor, parallel teachers, support staff etc.

You are far more capable than you realise.

Your Future. Their Future.
